Travel on the highways last night was under some handicaps. Not only was there a pouring rain but in many instances a deep fog enveloped the highways.

As a result of the heavy rain of Tuesday night, the Neshannock creek flowed like a good sized river this morning. It would do a lot of good by cleaning out the channel.

Teachers Of State Favor Reduction In Retirement Age

HARRISBURG, Feb. 27.—(INS)—The state school commission announced today that a proposal to reduce the retirement age of teachers had been approved by a majority of Pennsylvania teachers, school directors and superintendents.

The recommendation, submitted by superintendents, was favored by 69 per cent of 28,500 instructors queried. Director Paul H. Wueller reported. Eighty-five per cent of the directors polled earlier placed their stamp of approval on the issue.

Under the proposal, teachers would be eligible for retirement after 25 years of service.

Efforts Being Made To Reach Permanent Agreement In New York Dispute

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(INS)—The truce which averted a paralyzing strike on New York City's State transit system was hailed today on all sides.

President Michael Quill of the CIO Transport Workers union insisted that the settlement was a union victory. Mayor William O'Dwyer proclaimed that there had been no compromise, and millions of straphangers heaved a sigh of relief.

"Far from Settled"

But the issues were far from settled. Quill, brushing aside suggestions that the union had "backed down" at the 11th hour by withdrawing a demand for exclusive bargaining rights for 32,000 municipal transit workers, said: "Wait and see."

Mayor O'Dwyer, in compliance with the terms of the truce, appointed four members of a five-member "fact-finding" committee to report to the mayor on wages, working conditions and the city's labor relations with all transit unions involved.

Fact-Finders

They are Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the State Mediation board; Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, former labor adviser to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman; former State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Rosenman and one-time adviser to President Roosevelt; and Theodore W. Kheel, former executive director of the National Labor Labor board.

Police Officers Enforce Law On Picketing

Police Break Up Strikers' Defiance To Court Injunction In Philadelphia Today

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Mounted policemen swinging clubs today broke up mass picketing by nearly 1000 strikers at the General Electric company's plant in South-west Philadelphia.

More than 1000 policemen, mounted and on foot, scattered the pickets in a brief flurry of violence in which the strikers battled the cops.

One striker was taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment and six others were taken into custody for questioning.

The concentration of police, acting under orders of acting sheriff William J. Morrow, was the largest ever seen in Philadelphia.

Riding into the mass of marching strikers defying a court injunction banning mass picketing at the plant, the mounted police split the pickets into two sections.

Foot police following close behind herded the strikers along, dragging the marchers from porches where they sought refuge.

Many ex-servicemen in uniform were in the line of marchers. Shortly after the mass picketing was broken up, police allowed "token pickets" to take up posts at the plant gates. Streets were kept clear, however, and the strikers were not allowed to gather in groups near the plant.

Pay Raise For Armed Service Men Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Chairman of the Senate Military and Naval Affairs committee responded more warmly today than heads of similar House groups to army-navy requests that all members of the armed forces receive 20 per cent pay raises.

Sen. Elbert Thomas (D) Utah, Senate Military Affairs committee chairman, said promptly that he will support the proposal for increased pay and allowances. He said "there will be need for hearings," on the recommendations submitted by Secretary of War Patterson and Navy Secretary Forrestal.

Thomas asserted that "it's a matter of being straight out for it or against it" as Congress already has thrashed out wage controversies.

Long in Favor

Sen. Walsh (D) Mass., chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs group, declared himself "long in favor of a raise for the services."

Walsh urged that hearings "start right away" and recommended that increased salaries be made retroactive to the time that the War and Navy departments asked Congress for the hikes in pay.

Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, declined to commit himself until future study.

May observed that his group handles pay legislation for both the army and navy. He refused to say whether, when committee consideration would be given the proposal, adding that it would not take precedence over pending legislation.

Snyder Warns Inflation Now Grave Danger

Reconversion Director Urges Extension Of O. P. A. To Keep It In Bounds

SOUND ECONOMY DEMANDS ACTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder warned Congress today that inflation "is a very dangerous present condition" and urged extension of the OPA law to keep it "in bounds."

Appearing as a witness before the House Banking and Currency committee, Snyder declared: "It is vital to prevent inflationary trends from developing into a real inflation that will hamper business in its efforts to produce."

"It is vital to keep the cost of living in line so that labor need not press for higher wages."

"It is vital to keep the cost of major raw materials in line so that production can go forward."

Would Develop Spiral

Snyder predicted that if price controls are removed, it is "unlikely" that prices of autos, refrigerators, radios, furniture, and farm machinery will increase 25 to 30 per cent.

He declared that should this eventuate, the price of agricultural products, food, clothing, rents and housing would inevitably follow the inflationary spiral.

In painting the probable picture should OPA not be continued, he told the committee: "If heavy demand and great purchasing power are allowed to dissipate themselves in a boom that can end only in a depression, we will not be able to build a sound economy in the future."

Snyder cited increasing pressures against price ceilings as "evidence of the trend toward inflation."

Becoming Apparent

These economic factors, he said, are now coupled with a "psychology" (Continued on Page Two)

Miners To Seek Wage Increases

Other Demands Also Indicated In Forthcoming Negotiations On Contract

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's vast army of anthracite and bituminous coal miners will seek wage boosts perhaps as high as 35 per cent—or there will be a crippling coal strike this spring. That was learned today from an International News Service survey of both operators and mine workers in both industries.

The strike appeared almost certain "unless the operators and miners can patch up an acceptable wage pattern."

Officially, however, neither the operators nor the mine workers' union were saying anything pending the outcome of scheduled wage negotiations beginning in Washington March 11.

Apparent Plan

This much, however, appeared definite:

Mukden Shorn Of Machinery

By CHARLOTTE EBENER
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Feb. 27.—A glimpse of Mukden, once-teeming heart of Japan's stolen empire, left touring news correspondents with the impression today that the city has been shorn of the major part of its industrial equipment.

This correspondent toured miles of tomb-like streets in the industrial area and saw skeletons of 50 factories, deserted except for Russian guards armed with tommy-guns.

One group of nine allied correspondents entered one factory—the Manchukuo Enkai Kaisha Tool Co.—and saw gaps in the concrete flooring from which heavy machinery had apparently been removed.

Our visit to this factory was entirely by accident. The deputy later said that we would not be allowed to enter the building because Russian workmen were "repairing" the plant.

Emergency Housing Program Is Facing Some Modification

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—President Truman's emergency housing program, designed to provide two million 700 thousand new dwelling units in two years, faces heavy going in the house today where opposition mounted to basic phases of the plan.

During a day of bitter debate, house members evinced a strong dislike for the proposed 600 million dollar subsidy program to encourage greater output of critically short building materials and supplies.

There were signs, too, that the membership would reject amendments placing ceiling prices on existing homes.

Both items were listed by Housing Expediter Wilbur W. Wyatt as amendments.

Complete Plans For Red Cross Drive In County

Division Heads Meet Tuesday—Home Service Work Is Emphasized

Howard B. Cummings, chairman of the 1946 Red Cross fund campaign, and J. Glenn Berry, chairman of the Lawrence county Red Cross chapter, presided at the final meeting of division heads of the drive at the United Engineering company plant on Tuesday.

Following a luncheon served by the company, the chairman of the various divisions reported the readiness of their groups to begin the job. A morale, showing the increasing importance of the home service work of the Red Cross was shown.

For Home Service

A large part of the money raised in this year's drive, Mr. Cummings pointed out, will be used in home service work. In this function, the Red Cross is a medium of communication between the servicemen's family and the military; it makes case histories for the benefit of men in military or veterans' hospitals; it makes health and welfare reports to be sent to men who have not heard from their families for a period of time, or to families who have not heard from the servicemen; it assists veterans in establishing claims for pensions; it helps wives and parents of servicemen to make out affidavits and claims, to find out about their insurance, and often it gives them financial assistance.

Home service work is a 24-hour

Wife Of College Freshman Dies Of Bullet Wound

BETHLEHEM, Pa. Feb. 27.—(INS)—Police today investigated the death of pretty 19-year-old Mrs. Anne Kuti, wife of a college freshman—who was killed by a bullet from a souvenir German Lager pistol.

Delictive Captain Michael Fox said Mr. Kuti's husband, William, 23, told him the girl fired a bullet through her chest.

The missile tore through her body and lodged in a wall. The couple lived with the former Army Air Forces gunner's parents in Bethlehem.

Kuti, a student at Lafayette college, was released after questioning by police. He was quoted by Fox as saying his wife fired the shot during an argument.

FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER CLOSED

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(INS)—A French press agency report from Hendaye stated today that the Franco-Spanish frontier is already virtually closed to all traffic.

Spain has reportedly shut its French frontier in the Pyrenees and on the Spanish side of the border, near Hendaye.

French railroad officials, closing the Thursday midnight, closing deadline decided upon by the French cabinet, were said to have already prevented all movement of traffic with Spain.

Paris radio reports said that all leaves of Spanish troops in the Franco-Spanish border area have been cancelled, and that a number of units of the Spanish army have arrived at the frontier. These forces were said to be mainly Moroccan.

Legion Head To Be Here In April

John Stelle, National Commander, Will Address District Legionnaires

WILL SPEAK IN CATHEDRAL

John Stelle, National Commander of the American Legion, will be the guest of the American Legion posts comprising the 26th district, at a banquet meeting in The Cathedral, Saturday evening, April 13, it was announced at the meeting of the Perry S. Gaston Post, held in the Legion Home Tuesday evening.

Because of the anticipated demand for tickets, each post will be asked to reserve proportionately to their membership, only 150 tickets being allotted to the Perry S. Gaston Post.

A communication was received from National Adjutant Donald G. Glasgow, outlining action taken by the national executive committee in re-affirming their confidence in National Commander Stelle in his stand recently taken to speed up the services to veterans by the Veterans Administration.

See Improvement

The national executive committee stated that the committee, while not seeking the removal of General Omar Bradley, as head of the Veterans Administration, had already seen marked improvement in the service of the Veterans Administration. Posts were asked to report derelictions to their department commanders.

The next meeting of the post will be held in the new social rooms of the post, recently leased at 328 Neshannock avenue, where accommodations are available for seating over 500 persons.

The post voted a substantial contribution to the American Red Cross to carry on its work in the county, along with the transaction of other important business.

Preparing For A-Bomb Tests

Pilots Train In New Mexico For Coming Atomic Bomb Test In Pacific

ROSWELL, N. M., Feb. 27.—(INS)—An atmosphere of restrained excitement prevails in Roswell as crack American pilots train intensively for the forthcoming atomic bomb test against a group of naval vessels in the Pacific.

Col. Paul W. Tibbets, Jr., of Orlando, Fla., pilot on the first atomic bomb mission to Hiroshima, predicted today that the bomb that is dropped in the "Pacific" will explode within 600 feet of the target.

Tibbets is technical director of "task group 1.37" which will do the flying job. He is also commander of one of the eight crews that are competing in training at the Roswell airfield for the honor of dropping the highly energized pellet.

The atomic bomb will be directed at 97 naval vessels in the Marshall Islands area about May 15.

President Aims To Increase Food For Other Nations

Calls Conference To Work Out Plan To Reduce Food Consumption In U. S.

DESIRES TO SEND MORE FOOD ABROAD

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Truman today called a conference of 12 prominent business and civic leaders to meet in the White House Friday to work out a plan for reduction of food consumption in this country.

Former President Herbert Hoover is one of the 12 who have accepted the president's invitation. Hoover headed food relief work in Europe after the first World War.

To Send More Food Abroad

The president planned the conference in an effort to increase the amount of food that can be sent to war-torn countries of Europe and Asia.

Mr. Truman said in an invitation to the group that he has already directed government agencies to do everything possible to help prevent starvation abroad.

"Our national self-respect and our duties as human beings demands that we do all possible to stop the spread of famine," the president said in his telegram of invitation.

"But government alone is not enough. We cannot meet this situation without an aggressive voluntary

Newsman Get Close-Up View Of New Island

By JOHN RICH
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Feb. 27.—The world's newest island formation rising from the Pacific about 200 miles south of Tokyo proved today to be a "double feature."

This correspondent had a close view of the tiny formation from a C-47 transport plane and saw two distinct steaming volcanic masses.

The height of the formations, first reported about two weeks ago, was estimated at from 70 to 80 feet with diameters of 50 feet.

The islands are separated by a 50-foot channel. One of the volcanic formations was more active than the other but both were emitting jets of steam which rose 200 feet in the air and were visible for 75 miles.

Odor Of Sulphur

A distinct odor of sulphur was noted by newsmen and photographers who circled the islands in a group of 30 C-47s.

The planes soared so low over the miniature volcanoes that steam fogged the windows. A green discoloration fanned out in the ocean several miles from the rocks.

There's one thing to say about February, the moments are never dull, it's the shortest month but while it is here, it plays out its string to the full. It mixes the weather like candy, you never know what you will get, and if anything thus far is missing, remember it's not over yet. A downpour like April comes on us, then it's cold then it's cool, then it's warm, it's jolly today and the cloud layers, look like a bit of a storm.

Railroad Workers Vote On Strike To Be Given Friday

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Presidents of two of the nation's five railroad operating brotherhoods indicated today that results of a nationwide strike vote among 300,000 rail workers will be announced in Cleveland Friday.

President A. P. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, called a new conference for 10 a. m. Friday, at which time he is expected to reveal the results of the vote among his organization's 217,000 members.

Simultaneously, Alanley Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said he would have an announcement to make Friday also. However, Johnston said he did not plan a news conference to announce results of the voting among the 15,000 engineers affiliated with the B. of L. E.

of inflation that is becoming more and more apparent. He asserted that "trade and business journals frankly cite the probability that prices will go up."

Snyder denied the frequent charge that price control is restricting production and retarding recovery. He admitted that if any one businessman's prices were allowed to rise without any other changes in prices he himself could produce more. But he added:

"It does not follow that removal of all controls would have the same effect. Instead, it would destroy the advantage and create disordered markets."

The reconversion director reaffirmed his previous statements that the only real answer to inflation is adequate production to meet demand. He said:

"I believe we cannot drop our defense against inflation before supply begins to meet demand. We need that safeguard until production is sufficient and the volume steady enough, to begin balancing with demand."

WAGE PRICE PLAN RESULTS ARE NOT AS ANTICIPATED

admitted disappointment at the results obtained to date under the new wage-price program.

The labor secretary appealed anew to employers to settle their wage disputes and then go to the government for price relief.

Schwelmbach said he did not regard the advance price commitment given the steel industry as "a precedent." He added:

"I don't think the question of price relief can be determined before wage increases are made. The wage agreement has got to be made first. Otherwise we would have the whole thing damned up."

Two Critical Tests

The meat packing and shipbuilding industries afford two critical tests of the effectiveness of the new program.

The National Wage Stabilization board approved a 16 cent hourly wage boost for 95,000 production workers in the seized "big five" packing plants. It also adopted the 16 cent figure as a "pattern" for the rest of the industry.

Economic stabilizer Chester Bowles announced that meat prices will be increased March 11 approximately one and a half percent at the retail level to compensate packers for the pay boost.

Labor department officials are confident that the CIO and AFL packinghouse workers unions will accept the settlement. However, industry sources indicated that the price increase is below what the packers feel is necessary to permit the 16 cent wage adjustment.

The NWSB also endorsed an 18 cent hourly wage increase for 650,000 shipyard workers, with industry members dissenting. The board acted on the recommendation of the National Shipbuilding conference, which earlier approved the proposed pay raise.

stantial general wage boost and one spokesman insisted it might be as high as 35 per cent.

(2) If miners' wages are upped, the industry will demand—and likely get—a corresponding increase in prices.

(3) Besides wages, the miners will demand a shorter week but at no reduction in pay.

Another issue at stake when negotiation time comes will be the question of a comprehensive social security program. The miners, it was learned, will demand such a program, underwritten by the industry.

Unofficial sources expressed the belief that the United Mine Workers, led by militant John L. Lewis, will not abide by President Truman's present wage-price policy.

service of the local chapter, entailing cross-country telephone calls, hundreds of telegrams, lengthy reports and the cooperation of the motor corps in making home visits. Complementing the work of the local chapters is the work of the overseas Red Cross, which handles the other end of the communications.

Both of these groups must be supported as long as there are servicemen and veterans needing this assistance.

FROM ME TO YOU

★ ★ ★ By MESEEALL ★ ★ ★

Do you take an active part in the government of your country? Do you feel that you are a part of this nation or do you feel apart? Too many, we agree, share the same feeling, "what is one little voice against strong machines." The way our government is set up it is necessary to have party machines... and we should be very careful that we keep the machines and not let things deteriorate to one machine.

What has brought on this line of thought... it has been brewing around in hundreds of minds for a long time... the past four or five years has made the incubation period more intense. Hundreds of men and women have been forced to take a very educational tour of the world... they have seen and heard things that are very difficult to explain... but one thing isn't difficult to understand... if people will think straight and be honest with themselves... there is no one man or group of men large enough to govern all peoples of this world. There is something stronger than man on earth... if you think for a moment that the Allies crushed the Axis Powers solely by gunpowder... you are not being honest with yourselves.

Dropped in to see members of the Court House organization... have you been lately to look around? Many people feel that is county business and they are not too much interested... you are part of the county... no matter where you live. Any time you wish you may visit the men who make the wheels go round when it comes to building roads, bridges, selling your property for delinquent taxes and hundreds of other items that should interest you. The Three County Commissioners are your representatives... they run things... they make a budget and that budget has been on display for anyone to look at for twenty days. How many looked it over? Very few... it's that budget that tells how much mileage you will pay. The Three Commissioners kept things down and reduced the mileage 1/2 mill. But you didn't go up to look things over... they would be glad to have you visit them on things like that... they are working for you... you could have a part in government... That is only one example why you fell apart and not a part of the governing bodies.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

snow and colder, Pa Newc noticed the tips of daffodils, snow drops, and crocuses were sticking up above yesterday morning's snow. Hyacinths and tulips are also peeking through the ground.

With an expanded program the plan of the future, the local "X" is getting a face-lifting on the inside. Many renovations are now in progress, including a new coat of paint in the swimming pool. Stairways and other improvements are also included in the changes.

It is reported that some folks attending a Garden club meeting at a home on the East Brook-lakeview road, had to return home by the dirt cut-off road, which is on higher ground. The East Brook-lakeview road was partially under water, on account of the heavy rainfall of Tuesday evening.

Pa Newc is in receipt of a query from a rural resident, wondering what can be done about the stray dog situation in the county. The writer states that many city dwellers intentionally take their dogs or cats out in the country, turning them loose to either starve or freeze to death. "I can't leave my children out to play," the writer continues. "I wonder if the State police can't make a canvass of the situation? I called several different parties to take care of the situation but have never gotten any satisfaction."

With the announcement that motorists have only a little over a month to prepare their 1940 license plates, Pa Newc is of the opinion that many 1945 license plates need changed, as they are very illegible, especially those of the large trucks, whose plates generally get bent many times in the years, with their varied activities.

An indication of the trend in autos is seen in the move by the city in making larger parking spaces for autos in erection of the new type parking meters. Under the arrangement for the old meters a 20-foot space was allowed. Under the new plan there is 22 feet between meters. Some autos had much difficulty in getting into the parking space under the old program.

D. A. Morris, 40 North Ray street, reported to Pa Newc, this morning, that a carrier pigeon has been "roosting" at his place for the past week and is wondering who the owner is. The pigeon carries one marking indicating the year 1944, while the serial number of its band is I-16064. Mr. Morris is anxious to find the owner of the pigeon, as he put it, "they aren't the cleanest of pets to have around."

sential parts of the administration's plan for allocating the national housing shortage.

Republicans appeared to be rallying behind a substitute measure by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich., ranking minority member of the house banking committee. The Wolcott bill would delete the controversial subsidy provisions, as well as ceiling prices on both new and existing houses.

The measure now under consideration—the Patman bill backed by the administration—is open for amendments today. The controversial proposals have generated so much oratorical heat, however, that final action today is doubtful.

During Tuesday's debate, Wolcott broke away from the previous Democratic-Republican agreement favoring the subsidy program. He told the house that he preferred to see a moderate rise in building materials prices instead of any further use of subsidies as a means of holding down prices to consumers.

Sen. Brown (D-Ga.), a member of the Banking committee, which drafted the present form of the legislation, disclosed that he had offered the successful motion in the committee to delete the subsidy provisions.

Brown asserted also that he had led the fight in the committee which resulted in deleting ceiling prices on existing houses.

The Wolcott measure would create the new office of "housing expediter"; grant veterans preferences in the purchase of new homes, and extend the federal powers to allocate and grant priorities for scarce building materials.

The Patman bill would go much further. In its present form, it would legislate everything now included in the Wolcott measure, and, in addition, would give the housing expediter powers to place ceiling prices on newly constructed homes.

poas calling for the appointment of instructors by superintendents and the extension of tenure to superintendents, Wueler said. Teachers strongly objected to 17 other proposals designed to give directors a firmer hand in the employment, promotion and dismissal of teachers, he added.

Approximately 69 per cent voted against including insubordination as grounds for dismissal while 58 per cent opposed the dismissal of pregnant teachers who refuse to take a leave of absence, according to Wueler.

The most violently disliked idea, he said, were the repeal of the teacher tenure act and permitting dismissal of teachers upon agreement of two-thirds of the school board members.

Navy In 'Mothballs'

It seems a fearful waste, and it might turn out to be entirely futile. Yet the Navy's plan to assign 2,500 officers, 24,000 enlisted men and $4,000,000 a year, exclusive of pay for personnel to the maintenance of a "mothball" fleet, is a necessary measure of precaution that this country doesn't dare neglect.

The "mothball" fleet consists of 1125 ships of the East Coast's Sixteenth Fleet and 1079 units of the West Coast's Nineteenth Fleet which are being hauled out of the water or tied up and carefully preserved so that this country may not again be faced with an emergency comparable to that of the dark days after Pearl Harbor.

Costly and elaborate as such measures may be, there seems at present to be no alternative. Even such a course as this has its dangers, for we must not permit ourselves to forget that this fleet will rapidly deteriorate and become obsolete despite every precaution. Here is a safeguard which now seems to be justified. We must be ready instantly to abandon it, if satisfactory proof of any sort appears that these ships are no longer necessary or that they can no longer perform a useful emergency service.

How About Quonsets?

Second only to the jeep for all-around versatility, in the fond memory of ex-servicemen, is the Quonset hut. Yale university took the obvious course in applying to the Federal Housing Authority for 100 of them to house the families of 200 veterans now enrolled there. Each hut will become two three-room apartments with joint kitchen and bathroom facilities.

As tried and fully tested in every climate from the Arctic to the tropics, the lowly Quonset has virtues almost too numerous to bear repetition. Its semi-cylindrical form, though not elegant, has a clean, smooth aspect that is at least preferable to the trickle little doorways, jumbled roofs and other elfin oddities that mark many small houses built in the 1920s.

Construction is both light and strong. The frame of delicate I-beams for floor and ribs speedily bolts together to make a rigid structure. Flooring, corrugated-iron skin, insulation, interior wallboard, doors and windows all coalesce as if by magic. There is no sagging, no squeaking, and no leaking if joints are properly caulked.

While it's true that pictures cannot be hung on the side walls, not can a grand piano be placed with any success, Quonsets can be built up in a variety of formations—end-to-end, T-shaped, H-shaped, big and little. A bit of outdoor painting has done wonders for many an Army or Navy hut, and judicious painting could do more.

The unused Quonsets in this country and abroad might come in mighty handy during the present housing shortage.

Freedom Of The Air

The Anglo-American commercial aviation agreement made at Bermuda is undergoing keen scrutiny on both sides of the Atlantic. It involves concessions on both sides, but it serves to end a dispute over fares and the use of bases which has held back the development of ocean air travel for months.

United States airlines won full freedom traffic rights which the British had rejected at the world air conference at Chicago in 1944. American delegates agreed to a rate control method which stops privately owned American overseas carriers from setting their own fares in free competition.

London air interests were disturbed no end when American rate cutting presented a competition they could not hope to meet for years to come. Thereupon they clamped down on flight frequencies to the United Kingdom. They now agree to remove these restrictions.

Under a proposed world system of routes drawn up at Bermuda, the British would have seven and the Americans thirteen. American carriers will be permitted to pick up pay loads in England and deliver them to other countries. American commercial airlines also are granted use of wartime airfields built by the United States in such British possessions as Bermuda, Antigua, St. Lucia and British Guiana. But Newfoundland and Canada must agree to American use of such bases on the northern route.

The agreement paves the way for a vast world air commerce.

Japanese Revelation

Armament sales to the axis have been recounted in many a tale, but fewer are the instances in which the axis sold weapons to its enemies. According to Ho Shou-Yuan, governor of Shantung province, Japanese unit commanders disposed of ammunition, sometimes in quantities of 100,000 rounds, between 1939 and 1945. Both the forces of Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese communists obtained considerable equipment in this manner.

Before Pearl Harbor and afterwards Americans were told that they could not understand Japanese minds. The Japs apparently figured the Chinese would obtain munitions anyway, so why not profit by the opportunity? The revelation emphasizes the tremendous task of the United Nations in remoulding Nipponese thought.

WASHINGTON CALLING by MARQUIS CHILDS

Poland Is Still In Desperate Need

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—With all the columns and columns of news about the creation of the 32 new cardinals, there has been scarcely any mention of one of the most remarkable prelates to receive the scarlet biretta of a prince of the church.

That is Adam Stephen Cardinal Sapieha, who was archbishop of Cracow in Poland when he was selected for elevation to the College of Cardinals. Cardinal Sapieha comes of an old and aristocratic Polish family. For generations the Sapiehas have figured in Poland's troubled and tragic history.

The new cardinal has lived up to family tradition. Remaining in Poland through the German occupation, he became one of the heroic figures in the underground resistance to Nazi barbarism. Through his courage and his persistent in trying to help victims of the Nazis, he won a wide popular following. He never yielded to the threats or the persuasions of the invaders.

In Contrast In popular esteem, Cardinal Sapieha's position is in marked contrast to that of August Cardinal Hlond of Poland. Hlond fled from the Cardinal's Palace in Warsaw as the Germans invaded his country. He took refuge in France and was there when France fell.

For a time, Cardinal Hlond's whereabouts were a mystery. It was not known whether he was a prisoner of the Nazis or had been given his freedom. Just after Allied forces crossed the Rhine last year, he was found in a Westphalian monastery.

With fighting still going on in Poland and the Vatican, where he remained until he decided to return to Warsaw. His welcome was not exactly warm, if only because his conduct during the war had been in such contrast to that of Sapieha.

Sharp Attacks Not long after his return, Cardinal Hlond delivered several sharp attacks on the Polish pro-Nazi government. The government did not respond in any way. A little later, the cardinal preached a sermon against racial hatred and racial persecution which he had been urged to do as part of the effort to check the forays of armed bands which continued to pillage and loot in outlying districts.

While it may have no significance Cardinal Hlond was not present at the history-making consistory when the new cardinals were created. He was not a witness at the ceremony at which Poland's Sapieha, in whose family there have been many temporal princes, became a prince of the church.

Poland is, of course, next door to the Soviet Union. It is often spoken of now as no more than a satellite of the USSR. Russian reaction, therefore, in this instance is particularly interesting.

Secure Position Attacking the Vatican and the new cardinals, Soviet propagandists included the name of Sapieha of Poland. This is not likely to do the new cardinal any harm in his native land. He has won a secure position in a country which is overwhelmingly Catholic.

The USSR's propaganda methods know no subtleties. As in this instance, the weapon used is often a bludgeon which smashes down on all condemned categories, regardless of individual deviations and differences. That is one reason the Soviet technique has so frequently backfired in eastern Europe.

The Poles have always been a highly individualistic people. That helps to explain why their history has been so troubled through the centuries. The Nazi conquest and occupation and the terrible fighting which led up to liberation destroyed most of their cities and took millions of lives. But all of this could not, as events are beginning to make clear, destroy the Polish character.

The contemporary judgment of Poland as a satellite of her great neighbor is too hasty. There are still an estimated 200,000 Soviet troops in Poland. Others are constantly in transit to and from Germany.

While the new government has brought some improvement, conditions remain chaotic. Poland is desperately in need of the help and the confidence of the west. It is easy to pass judgement today, perhaps too easy.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:56. Sun rises tomorrow 6:30.

The world just moves too fast for these days. Just as we have succeeded in remembering our 1945 license plate, it's time to send away for our 1946 model.

Two East Side youngsters just started to school this year. The one is all enthused about the situation and the other, to put it mildly, is not the least bit excited about it.

The other day they were playing together, and things sort of palled a bit. "Let's play school," the enthusiastic one decided.

"All right," returned her little friend, grudgingly, "but you gotta play I'm absent."

Now that he's viewed the beautiful, unbelievable pictures in the latest seed catalog, the man at the desk refers to it as "My dream book."

People reflect like a mirror. If you smile at them, they nearly always smile back.

Being decent is expensive. We bankrupt ourselves to overcome gangsters and then have to feed the poor things.

If you offer the man $10 extra, that becomes the regular price. He figures other suckers are equally eager.

"False prophets" meant false teachers. They were not seen in Bible times, and it isn't a bad idea.

The economist says that money should be more elastic. The Sheep Hill philosopher agrees, but would like to see it a little more adhesive.

Haberdasher, are forecasting the doom of the stiff collar. Just another garment that's going to get it in the neck.

Mother: Then you mustn't play with him any more.

It won't be long now until you will have to toe the line with Uncle Sam. If you haven't made out your income tax yet, you might as well do it now, because March 15 will roll around pretty fast.

It is claimed that Eskimos never drink liquor. That certainly puts a crimp in the claims of those imbibers who say they have to take a nip to ward off a chill.

No woman ever makes a fool out of a man, she merely gives him the opportunity to develop his natural capacities.

"Darling, I just read of a man out west who exchanged his wife for a horse. You wouldn't exchange me for a horse, would you?" "Never," he replied. "What in the world would I do with a horse?"

We just read where a 600-pound Philadelphia man eats 12 pounds of spaghetti, two loaves of bread, eight pounds of frankfurters, three quarts of ice cream, five dozen eggs and two gallons of coffee every day. We know a lot of hogs which don't eat that much.

Liquor consumption was the greatest in the history of the nation last year, the per capita average being 1.38 gallons. With probably less than half the nation drinking any at all, it just shows how much some toppers consume.

We are all immigrant stock, but this environment changed most of us into Americans. The unchanged should be deported.

This explains a lot of things. Statistics show that the more education people have, the fewer children they have.

During the windstorm last week, a young woman was caught in the midst of a strong updraft on Mercer street, and considerably exposed. "Just look at me," she gasped to a young man standing nearby. "Lady," came the reply, "what do you think I'm doing?"

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Maybe you have read that story headed "Heavy Spenders Jam Miami Beach," and maybe you have been thinking and wondering about it, too.

Down there, according to the story, you pay as much as $37 a day for a double room facing the ocean—without meals, of course—and some hotels get as much as $60 a day, which is a little item includes meals, the use of the beach and sun-bathing on the roof.

At the Hialeah race course a million dollars is bet every day, and another half million at the dog races and on jal alai.

Fifteen miles away in Broward County gambling is wide open and fortunes are won and lost every night at roulette, dice, baccarat, poker and other games.

The women run around in skimpy shorts and bras, and it is a common thing to see these scantily dressed "ladies" wear ten and twelve-carat diamond rings.

Not far from that story all appeared to be the president himself. Dr. E. R. Dodge of Butte, Mont., picked up a stranded motorist and hauled him and a can of gasoline to his car. The stranger reciprocated by handing the good doctor three pounds of butter.

A British mathematician has invented what he calls "stretchable time." Just what a fellow means when the alarm clock sounds off in the morning.

Jack: "Yes, she is beautiful and I like those Biblical gowns she wears." Mack: "What are Biblical gowns?" Jack: "Those low and behold kind."

We have no class distinction in this country, but most motorists, we note, seem to think that the "No Parking" signs always mean the other fellow.

I was wondering whether there might not at least ever once in a while—just a bit ashamed of themselves to have so much and show it off, when so many millions would fall on their knees in a prayer of thanks for just a few of the leftovers and a few crumbs of bread from their overloaded tables.

I was wondering how many lives could be saved with just one of those twelve-carat diamond rings or with one evening's winning (or losing) at the gaming table.

I was wondering whether there would not be a little less acrimony between capital and labor if those who have too much were just a little more modest about their possessions, just a little less preoccupied about their mode of living, just a little more thoughtful of the other half—or should I say the other 90%?—who also have a right to live and to enjoy the sunshine.

Far be it from me to begrudge people who can afford a winter vacation. But overindulgence causes indigestion—not only to those who overindulge but also to those who hear and read about it.

FILLING OF INTERIM ARMY WITH 4-Fs

Plans to rush into the Army thousands of physically or even mentally impaired individuals constitute a desperate effort to accomplish a poor purpose.

As the law stands, the Selective Service Act is to end on May 15. Congressional action would be needed to extend it. Congress has been playing cat-and-mouse with the Act on that question for months. It still isn't taking any action to extend Selective Service, but apparently hasn't the spirit to declare it null and unequivocally, that the draft will cease on May 15.

The United States Army has been kept up in the air in more ways than one by Congressional side-stepping of military issues. Between high-spoken denials and other Selective Service inductions and volunteering it has been quite plain for weeks that measures to provide a military force of about 1,500,000 by June 1 are not likely to be carried out.

That fact, it is authoritatively stated, is necessary to discharge foreign occupation duties and to maintain a suitable defense organization in a still very unstable world.

The new 4-F induction program, to admit men with certain physical impairments and even "mild neuroses," has been adopted in the hope of filling up the ranks before the draft deadline.

Conceding that peacetime service in general lacks the rigors of war conditions, it is nevertheless a most insidious proposition to load the Army with men suffering from various disabilities. Review of 4-Fs might have been made long ago to some advantage. Now it is proposed on what seems a very broad scale as a last resort.

The plan threatens to overload Army hospitals and involve inordinate expenses. There are better ways to provide an interim Army, notably greater inducements to men to examine, a point which apparently has not been examined in Congress.

For the interim Army or a post-war Army, better measures can and should be devised than this dubious 4-F program. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Washington Panorama Beyond Scope Of Movies Capital Overwhelmed Film Maker Announces Ickes' Resignation Day Was Torrid Occasion

By HELEN ESSARY (Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—I met a big movie magnate in New York the other day. His name was Joe Pasternak. People say Pasternak is one of the smartest, if not the very smartest, producers in Hollywood—a very genius of a fellow.

We were having cocktails with Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Boomer in their Waldorf Tower apartment when I met Pasternak. Elsa Maxwell was at the little party. So was young Mrs. Pasternak who is pretty enough to eat. She has big blue eyes, soft black hair, exquisite cameo features and a perfect size 12 figure.

We were talking about Washington. I inquired boldly: "Why doesn't Hollywood do a good movie about Washington? There hasn't been a good one yet. Not one that gave the feel of the town. Why don't you undertake to get the real Washington on the screen?"

"And wouldn't I like to," said Pasternak, enthusiastically. "But how can you give anything but a part of a Washington? The place is too overwhelming if you take it as a whole."

Unpleasant Undercurrents

There are also some not too pleasant undercurrents running about the public doesn't want to be bothered with those undercurrents. Besides, it shouldn't be given a wrong feeling about its capital. It wants to idealize its public men.

"Isn't our job to debunk Washington, I don't think there is much to debunk. I believe only the best of our government. It's so much better than all the other countries of the world put together that I—I," Pasternak was about to go sentimental and put a native-born hypocritical Washingtonian to shame.

"When I think of the chance this country has given me and millions like me who have come here to make a living, why there aren't enough words to tell my gratitude," he added.

Putting Washington on the screen or on paper is indeed a baffling job for the expert of the movie. My old friend, Oliver Clapper, has done mightily well with her new book, "Washington Tapestry," in giving a picture of the capital and the people who make its intricate wheels click or jam.

Ickes-Truman Row Intense "Washington Tapestry" is a collection of anecdotes and incidents recorded and remembered by Mrs. Clapper and her late husband, Raymond Clapper, the journalist and commentator. It is a sort of running story of the Washington scene from the days of Woodrow Wilson through the Coolidge, Harding, Hoover and Roosevelt eras.

It takes America into and out of World Wars I and II through the struggles of labor and capital. It introduces to its readers the famous Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, the respectable Winston Churchill and the great enigma, Joseph Stalin.

I wish I had been in Washington for that Ickes press conference, when he told the world at large and the President in particular what he thought. Talked to Lyle Wilson on the train about Ickes. Lyle said never had been such a day in Washington as the Ickes resignation day.

Wilson said, speaking of explaining the capital to the people who don't live here: "You simply couldn't do the Truman-Ickes row justice. It was beyond description. I wouldn't have missed it for a lifetime of every-day living."

The World and the Mud Puddles

FIRST CLASS ADVICE Calvin Coolidge has often been referred to as a second-class President. His critics say that he did nothing; he said nothing and he did his term of office did not produce triumphs.

Well, listen to what Calvin Coolidge said on the subject of government financing: "Wealth comes from industry and from the hard experience of human toil. To dissipate it in waste and extravagance is disloyalty to humanity. This is no means a doctrine of parsimony."

Both men and nations should live in accordance with their means and devote their substance not only to productive industry, but to the creation of the various forms of beauty and the pursuit of culture, which give adornments to the art of life.

Now that is said to be old-fashioned; that belongs to the horse-and-buggy days. If so, we may well regret the passing of those days. If we had listened to Calvin Coolidge, we would not have three or four million "blood suckers" in Washington and elsewhere in the employment of the government, busily engaged in finding new ways of squandering the people's taxes.

There would not be any question of whether we should loan England four billion dollars or whether we should make a loan to Russia and a lot of smaller loans to other foreign peoples, when we do not have the money to loan.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

CHRONIC DAWDLING TRYING PROBLEM

One of the most trying problems to parents and, indirectly, to the child himself, is dawdling. Many parents are exasperated with the dawdler at school and, practically always, this same child has been a chronic dawdler at home. Unfortunately, the dawdler is pretty sure to be nagged constantly at home and at school, and in vain.

We must make some allowance, of course, for the dawdler. He may be slow by nature in his movements. Nevertheless, dawdling usually is a psychological problem.

Dawdling Begins

Dawdling generally begins at an early age while eating and dressing. It even can begin in the infant, feeding from the breast or bottle, if the child is often interrupted and amused while eating. Later, dawdling may be connected with all sorts of eating problems. My bulletin on eating problems may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City.

Hardly will the child learn to dawdle over food whose parents neither show nor feel any emotional disturbance over the youngster's eating, never push food into him against his will nor resort to tricks to slip food into him when he isn't watching, who serve one food at a time in very small helpings and remove it after he has neglected to eat it after a few minutes or has begun to play with it; who let him feed himself as soon as he is able, never coaxing nor commanding him to eat.

Mother Writes One mother writes of her child, three, that she tried my suggestion of serving him "one food at a time and in a very small portion, and it worked very well for a time, but now he has begun to dawdle over food." She easily could have prevented or corrected the dawdling if she had removed the food without a word or warning after he had begun before him about three minutes without his choosing to eat.

The temptation is, of course, to threaten the child that the food will be removed if you don't hurry. But the parent's attention tends always to be on the child's eating this food right now and not on cultivating of his appetite so he will choose to eat tomorrow or ten days hence. It is very desirable to prevent dawdling over food or correct such dawdling early lest it continue after the child enters school and contributes to dawdling at getting off of school in the morning.

When Dressing

Once the child has learned to dress himself his mother grows agitated if he dawdles, scolds and warns him to hurry and the more she does so, the more he dawdles, as a rule. She needs to discipline herself to say nothing about it, not even to feel vexed at him then. With a little help and encouragement from her occasionally, the young man may snap out of it.

This failing after several patient trials, the mother should assign him to sit on a chair and go about her work ignoring him and sealing her lips for 15 or 20 minutes, or until he chooses to dress himself. This will work if she keeps at it consistently day after day.

Severe as this might seem to be, it is so much more humane than jawing and going about "mad as a wet hen." Almost anything is better than these childish behaviorisms.

Thieves Find Happy Hunting In Miami--But So Do The Cops

By RUTH BRIGHAM
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—Miami is facing a theft wave reminiscent of the lush days of the twenties, as sneak thieves average a half-million dollars returns per month.

Sunshine And Sneak Thieves
While America's millionaires and some who have "saved up" bank in Florida's sunshine, the nation's soft-soled have sidled down to elevate petty crime into the ranks of big business.

Veteran Chief of Detectives L. O. Scarboro, who has hovered over Miami's detective bureau for nearly a quarter of a century says: "There's been a gradual upswing in thefts until we have just about reached the peak of the twenties."

The crime wave has soared along with the population influx, more than doubling as the season reached full swing.

And who are the leaders in this apparently profitable playground of thieves?

Cherchez La Femme
The gentler sex, says Scarboro. He explains:

"Most of the hotel thieves and shoplifters are women. They walk in hotel rooms and out with thousands of dollars in currency, furs and jewels."

The most notorious thief of the season is a slip of a woman—one who cried when caught with nearly $50,000 worth of furs and jewels.

And even when the thief is a man, he usually has a woman accomplice the detective said.

But there are no pistols for these babes to lay down for the haul—here is out simply for the haul—not the kill, and seldom carries a gun.

No Pistol Packing
In fact, Miami's current crime wave reflects little gunplay, with murder and homicide at a minimum.

The largest hauls of the season have taken place on Miami Beach, where most of the expensive hotels are located.

Perhaps the largest was the theft of $80,000 in jewelry and furs from a private beach home.

But if all seems well in this thieves' paradise, it isn't. For that eagle-eyed chief of detectives and his force have had the greatest season for recoveries in the history of the department.

Records show that approximately two-thirds of the furs, clothing and jewelry stolen this season have been recovered.

Scarboro said: "Sometimes we get them before they leave the state. Again we might not take them until they have returned to Detroit, New York or the large cities where they dispose of the goods. But we have learned how they operate, where they go, and we go after them."

The hardest of all to recover is currency, which cannot be identified, but the department's record for recovery is about one-third—which isn't too bad during a $1,000-a-day season.

Turkey Growers Predict Upswing Despite Feed Lack

State Growers May Surpass 1945 Figures, Federal-State Survey Reveals

HARRISBURG, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Pennsylvania turkey growers were aiming today at a 1946 production of more than 1,500,000 birds despite an acute feed shortage.

The federal-state crop reporting service stated that survey disclosed poultrymen may surpass the 1945 goal of 1,670,000 turkeys. Flocks of breeder hens have been increased by 32 per cent, it was pointed out.

Approximately 106,000 turkey hens were reported, compared with 80,000 at the end of the 1945 season, it was stated. Sales of poulters raised in the state were expected to increase.

Nationally, the 1946 output of holiday fowls may dip five per cent, it was predicted. The output of western states may drop from 30 to 18 per cent of the total crop, according to estimates.

State Is First
The Keystone state's yield last year placed it first among eastern turkey raising states.

The feed situation was considered the determining factor in the current year's production.

"Unless good quality feeds are used, the hatchability of eggs and vitality of poulters may be seriously affected," observers warned.

Farmers were warned to arrange programs for pre-rating supplies to assure a maximum of turkeys.

Instructors will be supplied by the Department of Forests and Waters, Fish and Game Commissions, U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the Department of Public Instruction, according to Klonowicz.

Facilities and services of technical advisers will be loaned by Penn State, he added.

SILAGE IS ECONOMICAL FEED FOR BEEF CATTLE

Silage has proved valuable in lowering costs of beef production, and use of more silage can make a saving in grain supplies. Feeding trials show silage produces fully as large gains and as good finish.

Cattle being fattened should be fed silage twice a day, giving them as much as they will eat without waste, rather than limit the amount of silage fed. Two-year-old steers fed on corn, legume hay and silage will eat 30 to 40 pounds of silage a day during the early part of their feeding period. As feeding progresses the amount will be gradually reduced until during the last month they will eat only 10 to 20 pounds a day. Yearlings and calves will eat less silage.

If it seems desirable to limit the amount of corn fed as grain, it is best to feed the steers only silage and hay, with enough oil cake or cottonseed meal to balance the ration in the first part of the feeding period. Steers will make good gains on such rations for some time, and the 40 to 60 days before they are to be marketed they may be fed corn gain and finished on full feed. Trials have shown this method requires less corn than when a half allowance of corn is fed throughout the entire feeding period.

Only black ink was used in the early history of printing. When color was wanted for initials or ornamentation it was hand lettered.

Gandhi Condemns Rioting; Deplores Lack Of Foresight

Nationalist Leader Calls Upon Indian Extremists For Patience In Problem

POONAH, India, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian nationalist leader, condemned the violence of the recent riots throughout India again Tuesday and said they "betray want of foresight and discipline in the British delegation."

Calling upon the Indian extremists for patience, the aged religious and political leader said the riots "precipitate a quarrel in anticipation."

"Let the official deputations prove for the last time that British declarations are unreliable."

"The nation will gain by trusting a deceiver loses when there is correct response from the deceived."

Concerning the awaited advent of a three-man cabinet mission being sent to India by His Majesty's government of Britain, Gandhi declared:

"Let us face the facts. The coming mission is claimed to be a friendly mission, entertaining the hope they will discover a constitutional method of delivery."

"The problem is knotty, probably the knottiest that has ever confronted a statesman."

"It is possible the mission will put forth an insoluble conundrum. So much the worse for them."

"If they are intent on finding an honest way out of the difficulties of their own creation, I have no doubt there is a way. A nation too, has to play the game, and if it does the game, it must be left aside at least for the time being."

FACES MURDER CHARGE
McKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 27.—(INS)—Mrs. Stella Gerber, 35, of McKeesport, today awaited grand jury action following recommendation of a coroner's jury that she be held for the murder of her 3-year-old daughter, Judith.

Before the coroner's jury yesterday, McKeesport testified that Capt. Walter Lofstrom testified that Mrs. Gerber admitted bludgeoning Judith with a telephone February 2. The child died later without regaining consciousness.

That fellow found snoozing on a tree limb in a park is probably the type that always insists on an upper berth.

OPEN BIDDING AGAIN
Competitive bidding will be opened again Monday morning on the property on Sampson street which has been a subject of controversy for some time. The property is about one and a half acres in size, and has been held by the county for delinquent taxes for some years. The city claims liens of about $7300 against it.

Some time ago the property was up for bid and a trucking concern from Tarentum bid $1400 for the acre and a half. The city countered with a bid of $2000. The private bidder then dropped out saying he would not bid against the city inasmuch as he would have to bid against tax moneys.

The city's bid was handed up to the court for approval but the court withheld approval, pending some investigation of it. In the meantime, Joseph Bowman, a New Castle truck line operator put in a bid of $2100.

The city has now instructed its legal department to bid up to the limit of its tax liens which it claims is $7300. There seems little possibility that a private individual could raise a bid of this size.

Said County Commissioner Karl T. Rohrer concerning the bids, "legally I expect we would have to accept the city's bid if it outbid a private individual. All we could do would be to hand the bid to the court for its consideration. Morally, I believe the idea of the city bidding against private individuals is wrong."

The city claims it wants the ground for a tool house but it seems to me we would all be better off if the land could be put back into the taxable lists, house a small industry and provide employment."

Said Chairman Earl R. Wimer, "The city expects to bid on ground on Taylor street for a tool house also. In addition they have property in the third ward which could be used. I cannot understand why they insist upon outbidding private individuals. If the city gets the land it will be off the taxable list and I fail to see why this site should suddenly become the property of the city wants for a tool house."

Said County Commissioner Joseph P. Travers, "We had a group of 6th ward citizens up here protesting this sale the last time the bids were open. They believe, and I agree with them, that it is better to put the property back on the tax lists."

Bidding will be opened Monday morning at ten o'clock.

RESULTS FOR THE YEAR
The high level of business that prevailed during the war years continued during 1945; the volume being the third largest in the Company's history, and exceeded only in 1943 and 1944.

Costs of operation constantly increased due to higher costs of labor and higher costs of materials. Operating revenues of the Company declined $3,562,501, caused by the cessation of hostilities and labor disturbances in some of the larger industries. Expenses of operation increased $47,628,686, including $1,395,479 to cover the unamortized portion of the cost of emergency facilities required for the prosecution of the war. The Net Income in 1945 was $49,008,738 compared with $64,720,431 in 1944, a decrease of $15,711,693. Notwithstanding this decrease in Net Income, dividends paid in 1945 were maintained at the same rate paid in 1944, 1943 and 1942—3% ($1.50 per share).

TRANSPORTATION FOR THE FUTURE
The country's vast system of airways, highways and waterways will be expanded at the Government's expense, while all of the improvements for the railroads will be privately financed. The problems with which the railroads are faced as a result of the war should have intelligent consideration by state and national authorities wherever regulation restricts the opportunity for the rails to move forward.

The railroads want no subsidy; they want equity. They are a heavily taxed industry competing with subsidized industries, and all they ask is equality of opportunity.

As the railroads planned to meet the requirements of war, so they are planning for the opportunities of peace, and given a fair and equitable chance they will furnish the public the best in freight and passenger service.

TAXES
The Pennsylvania Railroad Company during the war years paid in taxes and disbursed for improvements and repairs, to meet the war load a sum of money equal to the entire debt upon the property. A national railroad system without any debt would place the railroads in the same position as their competitors, as the Government furnishes a large amount of the capital for the waterways, the highways and the airways.

There was much deferred maintenance during the war period. The Interstate Commerce Commission gave the railroads authority to create reserves to meet this situation. The taxation system, however, would not permit them to take any tax benefit on reserves so created, and money that should have been set aside for this purpose was taxed the same as other income. Deferred maintenance, therefore, he paid out of post-war earnings, and the more the post-war earnings are siphoned off through taxation, the less will be the money the railroads can spend on rehabilitation and improvements.

Railway taxes, after adjustment by tax credits of $24,443,381 for prior war years, together with Unemployment Insurance taxes of $12,741,141, and Railroad Retirement taxes of $13,802,891, aggregated $51,340,013.

LEGISLATION
To clarify the intent of Congress with respect to carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, and to resolve any regulatory conflicts with the Antitrust laws, Congressman B. W. Wicker of North Carolina introduced a bill, H. R. 3536, known as the Bulkhead Bill, which gives such carriers protection from the Antitrust laws only to the extent that their acts and procedures have obtained prior Commission approval. The bill was endorsed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and in numerous state commissions, and by public and commercial bodies and by shippers and producers generally. It was passed by the House by a large majority and now awaits action by the Senate.

To insure consistent policies with respect to legislation, and the future efficiency of the transportation system, the Bill is worthy of the earnest support of the people, who have recently seen the vital importance to the nation of the ability of the carriers to work together in the public interest.

FREIGHT AND PASSENGER RATES
The railroads have done the war job with practically no increase in freight rates and a relatively small increase in passenger fares—2 1/10 of a cent per mile in basic coach fares and 5 1/10 of a cent per mile in fares good in Pullman cars.

The year 1946 will be one of greatly increased cost of operation and maintenance with a decreasing business, and it is therefore imperative to consider the need for increased railroad freight rates.

The railroads were granted a 5% increase in freight rates, in May, 1942, which however was suspended until six months after the war, but, as the situation appears to be developing, it will be necessary for the railroads to petition the Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase greater than that under suspension, in order to meet greatly increased expenses and avoid deficit operation.

Large expenditures must be made for the rehabilitation of the railroads. All of these necessities will require money in large amounts. Money requires credit, and the credit of the Company is very much affected by the rates at which the business is carried.

REDUCTION OF FUNDED DEBT
Maturities during the year amounted to $11,807,880, which together with other debt retired and canceled amounting to $9,382,000, made a total reduction of $21,189,880 in 1945. This reduction was offset, in part, by the issuance of $16,290,000 Equipment Trust Obligations.

In addition, as a result of refinancing of bonds and purchases from the public, other debt of System Companies was reduced $5,380,087.

STOCKHOLDERS
The growth and expansion of the Company during the one hundred years of its existence is reflected in the number of shareholders, the shares outstanding and their distribution. When the Company was chartered there were 2,655 subscribers to the original issue of 60,257 shares of stock of the par value of $50 each, being an average holding of 22.87 shares by each subscriber.

On December 31, 1945, there were 214,995 holders of stock, and the number of shares outstanding had grown to 13,167,754. The average holding was 61.24 shares.

REFINANCING OF BONDS

The Company continued its policy of taking advantage of the prevailing money rates to refinance certain of its bonds, as well as those of its affiliated companies, and was able to make some very advantageous refundings, from which it will ultimately realize approximately $47,000,000 of savings.

EQUIPMENT

The ending of the war made it possible to acquire materials for construction of passenger cars, and there are under construction one hundred and twelve modern passenger train cars, of lightweight construction, of which ninety are being built in Altoona Shops, and twenty-two by an outside builder. They are the finest type ever to be built for the Company, and are especially designed for safety.

Since the close of the year, orders have been placed with outside builders for the construction of two hundred and fourteen passenger train cars of which one hundred and fifty-nine are to be sleepers, for the improvement of the post-war passenger service on the railroad.

Twenty-five of the largest and most modern steam freight locomotives and tenders were placed in service during the year. Orders were placed for fifty additional steam passenger locomotives and tenders and part of the order was delivered. One Diesel electric passenger locomotive was delivered during the year, and ten more were ordered.

On December 18, 1945, the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania approved the sale by Pullman Incorporated to a Buying Group of Railroads of all the outstanding stock of its wholly owned subsidiary, The Pullman Company, which owns and services the sleeping cars.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, as one of the railroads in the Buying Group, has purchased from The Pullman Company 142 lightweight sleeping cars assigned for service on its lines, as well as 125 regularly assigned parlor cars.

RESEARCH

The Company, always seeking through research in science and technology, through discovery and invention, to be in the forefront of progressive improvement in railroad travel and shipping, has continued to move forward during the year. Through its own research staff, through the research laboratories of the Association of American Railroads, and cooperatively with equipment manufacturers, the Company is alert in utilizing the utmost improvements in the field of electronics, metallurgy, chemistry and engineering, which can be applied to increase the efficiency, comfort and safety of rail transportation.

EMPLOYEES

As we come out of the war and enter the peace, it is a pleasure to acknowledge the efficiency and loyalty of the employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad and their devotion to duty.

From the low ebb of the depression in 1938, with a depleted force, the Company moved into the heavy traffic of the war, met the peak load of its history, both passenger and freight, and is moving into the reconversion era. The Management wishes to acknowledge the splendid way the employees served their Country and the Company by meeting successfully every emergency they were called upon to face.

STOCKHOLDERS

The growth and expansion of the Company during the one hundred years of its existence is reflected in the number of shareholders, the shares outstanding and their distribution. INCREASING EQUITY OF STOCKHOLDERS PRR SYSTEM

This chart shows how the property investment in the railroad system has steadily grown while publicly held debt has decreased. The money put back into the railroad not only has increased the stockholder's equity but has brought the total investment to a point where it is equal to more than $17,000 per employee.

A BRIEF HISTORY of the railroad's growth and development over the hundred years since its founding April 13, 1846, is included in the Annual Report sent to stockholders. Copies of it may be had by writing Office of the Secretary, Broad Street Station Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Lawrence county farmers, who attended yesterday's meeting under the auspices of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association, in the court house, when farm management and agricultural engineering were discussed by specialists in these fields from Penn State college, were advised to tighten their belts and go all out for production this summer.

Addressing the meeting, which was an all-day affair, starting at 10 a. m. and lasting through the afternoon, were Earle Moffitt, farm management extension specialist, and R. J. McCall, agricultural engineering extension specialist.

Need Big Production

Mr. Moffitt stated that the coming year will find a need for everything that can be produced on the farm. Farm costs will be higher, the speaker predicted, emphasizing that farmers should avoid speculation and not turn from one farm enterprise to another, but to stick to the crops they have been producing.

Mr. McCall predicted that machinery for the farm will be far below previous expectations, due to industrial conditions brought about by the many strikes. He stated that farmers, in a great many instances, will have to repair their old farm machinery and make it do yet another year.

Tell Of Machinery

Three local men told about their experiences with machinery they built for use on their farms, which proved satisfactory.

Ed Van Blarcom of North Beaver told about a buck rake he had made of a truck, and was used to haul hay from the fields to the barn, and grain to the threshing.

Walter Rodgers of Plaingrove told of a grain elevator and hay hoist, which he and his father had built, which proved helpful.

F. W. Byers of North Beaver described a hay-finisher, which he installed last summer, and used to complete the drying of around 100 tons of hay. Higher quality hay than he had ever produced before resulted, and the hay retained its color and was of better feeding value.

See Harm In Seaway Project

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—The St. Lawrence seaway was attacked Tuesday as "a pig in a poke" which might bring fatal harm to New England port facilities.

The controversial $500 million dollar project, now being considered by a Senate Foreign Relations committee, met determined opposition from a series of witnesses representing New England business and transportation interests.

Frank S. Davis, speaking for the Maritime association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, summed up opposition arguments to the seaway and power development.

Davis declared the project would add to the tax burden, reduce New England railroad and port traffic, and unneeded power to compete with existing steam-generating plants, and affect coastal shipbuilding operations.

Rev. Burris Will Illustrate Sermon

Members Of Party Augmented By Laymen Of City Will Assist In Dramatized Sermon Tonight

"God's Lighthouse" will be the theme of Rev. Jackie Burris' message tonight in the Cathedral auditorium, Lincoln avenue, at 7:30 o'clock.

Illustrating his message with the use of a large lighthouse with the rest of the platform representing the ocean and treacherous shoreline, members of the party, with assistance from city laymen, will participate in the dramatized sermon. The illustration will represent individuals being tossed about on the sea of life, with the only sure haven being found in God.

Despite the inclement weather, Rev. Burris addressed an audience of 1200 people in the Cathedral on Tuesday evening. The evangelist brought one of his most forceful messages, entitled, "Prodigal Daughters," bringing out the conditions that exist in the present day and the only remedy for them.

The Smitty girls quintet, Mrs. and Mrs. Neil Macaulay and Mrs. Verla Smith, will be heard in many musical and vocal selections, preceding the sermon at tonight's service.

With the exception of Saturday evening, a meeting will be conducted every night at 7:30 in the Cathedral auditorium.

Heavy Rain Swells Stream In County

Although not near flood stage, streams in Lawrence county rose rapidly during the night, following yesterday's all-day rain, when almost an inch and a half of precipitation occurred.

The Shenango river rose five feet since yesterday morning, and the Neshannock and Big Run, were near the top of their banks, all overflowing in the low spots.

Midland High Leopards Defeat Wampum 32 to 29

Valleyites Display Precision Quintet In Tight Victory

Capalbo, Kanagy Star For Chiefs; Connelly Paces Leopards To Their Win

Indians Lead At End Of First Half, But Midland Rebounds To Win Contest

(By News Staff Writer)
NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Feb. 27.—Wampum High school's dreams of a championship in the Class B basketball circles were blasted here last night as they were cut down by a precision-passing Midland High five, 32-29 in a close and gripping game.

Both quintets met here in the first round of the play-offs for the western title. Midland having swept the honors in Section 10 and the Indians the title winners of Section 20. Midland will now advance to the quarter-finals, meeting either Avalon or Edgewood at the Brighton floor next Tuesday night.

Leopards Smooth
Midland, coached by Eddie McCuskey, who has finished his first season as mentor of the valley school, presented a team that had the noise and precision that is rare in high school circles, a team that refused to become ruffled, a team that refused to be out of sync in the contest. Their ball-passing and pesky defense was top-flight and their stamina in the final half aided in the victory as the Wampum entry seemed to tire badly.

Tight Defense
The Leopards threw up a barricade around their baskets that the Hennoemen found hard to crack and they kept the Chiefs to one of their lowest scores of the season. That is the strategy of the valley school, play them close to the vest, force opportunities and keep on the opponents' necks. They did this in a remarkable fashion with ball-stealing and close guarding.

The valley team hasn't run up high scores all season and on the other hand no team has scored as much as 40 points against them. They are a scientific team, well-coached and with good timing.

Take First Quarter
Midland drew first blood when Connelly dropped in a two-plier, and Kanagy knotted it with one as the score was 2-2. The valleyites ran the count to 5-2 before Capalbo rapped in two rebound shots to put Wampum ahead, 6-5. A long one by Dave Kanagy plus a foul shot gave the Chiefs a 9-7 lead but two fielders by Connelly knotted the count and then gave the Leopards the stanza, 11-9. In this period, Migliore, Midland's pint-sized forward, and a honey of a ball-player, skinned his nose rather badly but continued in the game.

Indians Gain
Kanagy opened the second frame with a nice shot to snarl the score again at 11-11, and when Andre 18-18 on a beauty, and Migliore 11 lead Capalbo began grabbing the rebound balls and quick as a flash whipped in three scores and Wampum led, 17-13. Marich then got his only point of the contest on a foul and the Indians enjoyed their biggest margin of the game, 18-13. C. Kennedy got one for the Leopards at this juncture and Connelly on a length-of-the-floor race racked up another and the half ended, 18-16 in favor of the Indians.

Midland Comes Back
Unruffled by the score and playing the same icy brand of ball, the Midland team went to work to whittle down the Wampum lead in the third stanza.

Connelly, thorn in the Indians' side all night, led the game again, 18-18, on a beauty, and Migliore led 20-20 and Johnson's charity toss gave the Indians their last lead in the game, 21-20. Connelly got another and Migliore two, one a beautiful steal for a long dribble and the basket, and despite Kanagy's last minute goal the Leopards led at the end of the third frame, 26-23.

Midland Stays Ahead
In the final canto the Leopards seemed to gain strength while the Indians tired badly. The Wampum club made a game bid to wrest the lead again but there was always a Midland player there to pump one of those "star" ahead field goals and the Indians' chances grew dimmer.

Midland ran their count to 29-25 when Kanagy dropped in a foul to make it 29-26. Here "Bo" Johnson sank his lone field goal of the game, a beauty from side court and the Indians only lagged, 29-28.

When it seemed that the Chiefs might pull the game out of the fire, Balco, Midland forward slipped in a two-plier and a charity throw and the Leopards led, 31-28. Capalbo, once the firing line for two foul tosses, dropped in the first one to make it 32-29 and then the Indians, with some 40 seconds remaining in the contest, took the ball out on the side court in an effort to score a field goal but their strategy was in vain and Midland, taking the ball, froze it the final hectic seconds and thus took the contest.

Capalbo-Kanagy Star
This was no contest the Indians need be ashamed of losing for they played their hearts out and actually showed more fight than their valley opponents. Ed Capalbo with 13 points, led the Wampum attack and played one of the best games of his career. Incidentally last night's contest was his last. Dave Kanagy, cool as usual, was second high for the Indians with 10 points and was brilliant on the floor.

Migliore-Connelly
Midland had the fine forward in the diminutive Tony Migliore, who is about the size of Bessemer high's Madrid, and one of the smoothest floormen this writer has seen all season. He is a real ball hawk and as pesky as a mosquito.

Wampum doubled up to stop Byron "Bunny" Balco, high scoring forward, but Pat Connelly, at one of the guards, broke loose to lead in the scoring with a dozen markers.

The Kennedy twins also stood out for the valley five, with fine floor work.

Tight Defense
Summing up the contest it appeared that the Midland team won with their tight and pesky defense and being artists at stealing and controlling the ball, they kept the Wampum team off balance and threw their high-scoring attack out of gear.

Wampum's chances were dealt a severe blow because of Marich, their ace forward, who was of little help in the game because of a bad ankle. Eddie got but one point in the game, a very unusual total for this all-league boy and this undoubtedly put a tough crimp in the Wampum attack. Had he been his old self, the game may have been somewhat different.

Non-scoring side: Wampum—Downey, Score by period: 11 5 10 6—32 Midland—.....11 5 10 6—29 Wampum.....11 5 10 6—32

McKeesport Fans Liked Pulaski Five

Freddy Wimer Drew Pundits Of Crowd; Mayor Of City Viewed Big Game

According to the sports writers of the McKeesport "Daily News", New Castle's K. Pulaski basketball team made a big hit with the fans in their recent game with the "Big Five" of that city.

The locals lost a thriller 58-54, a game in which Freddy Wimer, ex-Rhode Island State star, stole the show with 21 points scored.

Lands Wimer
To quote Sports Editor Merrill Grainger of the "Daily News": "Fred Wimer, New Castle's young forward, who was with Rhode Island State college this season until he got homesick and returned to New Castle, lived up to his advance billing. He flung 21 points through the cords and almost turned the tide in favor of the visitors."

The Pulaskis cavorted before a packed house that included the mayor of the city, Charles A. Kincaid, and the McKeesport high school game mentor, Neenie Campbell.

The contest was rated one of the best at the McKeesport floor in a long time.

Westminster Passers Prepared For Invasion Of Geneva Friday Thursday Night

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 27.—Westminster's power-packed Titan basketball team is preparing for its invasion of the Beaver Falls High gym Thursday evening in a return game with the Geneva college passers.

Westminster, winners at New Wilmington earlier in the season 52 to 44 over the Covenanters, hope to repeat tomorrow night. Coach Grover Washbaugh has given the Titans some stiff drills this week, following their last Saturday night victory over Tech, 67 to 45.

Seek Fifteenth Victory
The Titans with 14 wins and three defeats hope to further enhance their district standing by dumping the Genevians. Wask, McInnes and Jones were not with the Titans in the first Geneva meeting, they will make a big difference.

Coach Washbaugh will probably start Captain Chris Wagner and Billy McInnes at the forwards. Wask at center and Hedgerton and Paine at the guards. Dean Nelson is still ailing with a bad leg, and did not see service in the Tech game.

Rifle Club Pays Tribute To Four Members Tuesday

Brassards Awarded To Moore, Bowers, Parsons, Cross At Banquet Event

NEW CASTLE CLUB ENJOYS EVENING

New Castle Rifle club members and their wives, numbering 27, last evening gathered at a New Wilmington road cafe and enjoyed a spaghetti supper as the means of honoring four of their members for service to their country in the late World War through instructing young inductees in the fundamentals of shooting, and how to handle a rifle.

The dinner began at 7:30 o'clock and for those who did not eat spaghetti there was chicken and steak, and the meal was tasty in every detail, as only Sam DeFilippo can prepare it.

Have Speaking Program

Following the dinner, Secretary Charles Phillips, in the absence of President Leo W. Hill who was ill and unable to attend, made a short speech and introduced Charles "Bugs" Walther of The News sports staff as the toastmaster.

The following members of the New Castle club gave short but very interesting talks when called upon: William Houck, of Sharon, a former New Castle man, George Finney, Walter Bowers, Wayne Parsons, Jesse Moore, Paul Carriagans, range officer, Clyde Thomas, Wilbur Thomas, Arden Mowry, also of Sharon, "Bud" Heckert, Eddie Logue, Secretary Phillips and L. C. Corbin.

Awards Are Made

Winding up the program was the presentation by Mr. Walther of four brassards to the four honorees, Jesse Moore, for outstanding service, Wally Bowers and Wayne Parsons, August Cross was unable to attend but will be given his brassard, a beautiful emblem that can be worn on the jacket of the men.

The New Castle club can't be proud of the fact that they have four men who won awards by the National Rifle association for outstanding work in the training of young men and conducting a small arms firing school. The men gave of their time and efforts with a free will and are gratified by the results which they obtained.

Plan Membership Drive

The New Castle Rifle club is planning a membership drive to increase the number in the club to around 100 or so. It is the duty of everyone to know how to fire a rifle and the safety rules for handling a gun.

The club has its range in the Cathedral basement and invites anyone interested to attend any of the meetings or matches in the Interstate league in which the New Castle club holds the first-half championship and are well on their way to winning the second-half title providing they can defeat Beaver Valley here next Monday and the Evans City team.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

MERCER County Council of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs has passed a resolution commending the Pennsylvania Game Commission for having purchased land in Crawford County for establishing a new rignneck game farm. The resolution also requests that the present game farm in Lawrence County be maintained at fullest capacity possible. In discussion before adopting the resolution, a number of sportsmen who have kept in close contact with the commission have been pointed out that for more than twenty years the commission has been doing a wonderful job there. For a number of years before the war they were shipping out about 8,000 birds each fall and the same number each spring. Some of the fellows had checked back and presented figures reported by the commission at the close of 1938 where they were able to raise and release more than 17,000 birds from a total hatching of a little over 18,000 chicks.

At that time it was believed in general by the commission as well as the sportsmen, that no where in the state could a better job be done in the propagation of rignnecks. During all of these years the location, ground and general conditions of this farm has been considered with the ported excellent. We cannot, in anyway, see anything wrong with the Jordan Farm. We do see that it is not large enough. We would not consider it good business however, to give it up because of its size. The long run because should disease strike a game farm, it would likely wipe out every bird writer Seth Myers of Northwest Pennsylvania Sportsmen who adds: Truly, it would cost more to operate two farms, but from the safety angle it is never good policy to put all of one's eggs in the same basket.

Morris Aurelius Kelly, one of the top sports scribes in the business a few years back who will soon broadcast "Thrills of a Century" has come through with outstanding athletic events up to today with the answer. He obtained them through a poll of 132 sports writers from coast to coast. Jack Dempsey topped most of the nominations when the sport scribes recounted "the most thrilling athletic event they ever witnessed." For your personal edification, here are the top 18 events as selected by a consensus of many of the nation's ranking sports reporters: 1—Jack Dempsey-Louis Angelo Firpo fight; 2—Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney "long count" fight; 3—Bobby Jones "grand slam" in golf; 4—Jim Thorpe's career as the world's greatest athlete; 5—Babe Ruth calling his home run shot in the third game of the Yankee-Cub world series game in 1937; 6—Grover Cleveland Alexander's pitching in the 1926 series when he stopped the Yankees by fanning Tony Lazzeri.

Red Grange's "Galloping Ghost" performance of scoring four touchdowns in 12 minutes against Michigan is listed as seventh; 8—Fourth game of the 1929 world series when the Athletics pushed across ten runs after the Cubs apparently had clinched the contest; 9—Seabiscuit's victory over War Admiral in the Pimlico Special; 10—Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard fight in 1919; 11—Lon Grigir, knowing his days were numbered, asking to be taken from the lineup on May 2, 1939 after playing 2141 consecutive games; 12—Charlie Paddock winning the 100 and 200-meter races at the Inter-Allied games; 13—Joe Louis' knockout of Max Schmeling; 14—The exciting riding career of Tod Sloan; 15—The Notre Dame-Ohio State game in 1935; 16—Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno; 17—Jim Corbett-John L. Sullivan fight; 18—Cubs-Giants game when Fred Merkle failed to touch second base, giving the game to the Cubs.

A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT for Provident Mutual and Its Policy Owners

The year of 1945 was one of progress and achievement for Provident Mutual and its policy owners. Assets topped the half billion mark for the first time and now stand at $11 millions. Legal reserves and other liabilities amount to 477 millions. In addition there are special and contingency reserves amounting to 34 millions.

Twenty-seven million dollars were paid to policy owners and beneficiaries during the year including death claims, matured endowments, cash values and dividends. The dividend scale in use in 1945 is continued in 1946.

Despite the fact that many of the Company's agents were in the Armed Forces, those who remained sold 76 millions of life insurance in 1945—the highest total in the last ten years. Insurance in force reached a new high of 1,129 millions . . . a gain of nearly 40 millions.

A FINER ORGANIZATION TO SERVE YOU

When you insure in the Provident Mutual you entrust your savings to a company that is operated for and belongs to its policy owners. Such a company must constantly look ahead toward the future security of its members. It must not only provide financial stability, safety, and security, but also an organization that is capable of rendering the highest type of life insurance service, both in the home office and in the field.

During the year we welcomed back to a depleted agency force 55 young men who had been in the Armed Forces, and added 133 new agents, many of whom were also veterans.

One of the most forward-looking trends of the year was the further development of a plan of individualized service to policy owners, integrating their present life insurance with their social security, their other investments and pension plans. With the end of the manpower shortage Provident should be able to render better policy owner service in 1946 than ever before.

M. ALBERT LINTON, President

Dawn Of New Science Era To Break Soon

Atomic Bomb, Rockets And Radar Experiments To Revolutionize Science

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—The atomic bomb, rockets and moon-aimed radar bullets were set today to bust out all over spring this year.

The sun dappled season is expected by civilian and military scientists to witness results of fateful experiments revolutionary in their significance.

The aptly named "operation cross-roads" in which five battle ships will be atom-bombed might spell the end for naval vessels in warfare and further clear the path to a world of atomic energy. This test is scheduled for May in the Marshall.

The navy plans by late spring to take a shot at the moon with radar at the navy's Chesapeake Bay annex near North Beach, Md. Equipment is being set up now similar to that used when the army signal corps hit the moon on January 10.

Big Future
Practical applications promised by this experiment include the possibility of radar exploration of the moon and planets as well as control of space ships and long-range rockets.

It is believed in some scientific quarters that radar contact with the moon will speed developments of a defense against the atomic bomb. Eventually, powerful frequencies possibly could detect enemy aircraft armed with an atomic bomb and then guide a missile to intercept attack.

Rocket weapons will be tested also in late spring by the army at White Sands, N. M. Rockets captured from Germany, believed to have reached an altitude of 50 miles, will be used in the experiment to determine whether they can be forced even higher by the addition of intricate gadgets.

New Projects
A War department spokesman disclosed that Maj. Gen. G. M. Barnes, ordnance research director, will leave Washington shortly for New Mexico in preparation for the shooting of rockets into the sky.

Also booked for the spring are a series of flights to the equator aimed at making cosmic ray discoveries leading to new sources of atomic energy. These will start in April.

The National Geographic society is sponsoring the stratospheric search with War department backing. Chief objective will be to gain more information about the negative proton which Russian scientists believe they have trapped.

The flights will be made at altitudes ranging from five thousand to 35,000 feet.

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 27.—"American Troubadours" will appear as an Artist Course number in Westminister college chapel Wednesday, March 6, according to Prof. Donald O. Cameron, Artist course director.

The talent quartet consists of Mary Edwards, soprano; Jimmie Jean Haward, mezzo soprano; Alan Warner, tenor and director; John De Merchant, baritone.

THINGS TO COME
CHICAGO, Ill.—(INS)—The housewife who attends a matinee soon may be able to do her shopping for dinner right in the lobby of her favorite movie theater. This forecast was made by officials of the coin vending machine industry in reports to the Refrigeration Equipment Manufacturers association. The plan calls for mechanically refrigerated machines for vending frozen fruits, vegetables and meats.

So many young couples are getting married in England these days that shopkeepers have run out of wedding rings.

Four Brown Sons Served In Forces

Three Sons Of Mrs. F. H. Brown
Now Discharged; One Is Still Hospitalized

Mrs. F. H. Brown, 336½ Produce street, is happy once more as her four sons, all veterans of the recent war, are back home again.

Three of the boys have received their honorable discharges from the service, while the fourth is recovering from a leg wound received in the fighting in Germany.

Howard D. Brown, technician fifth class, served through the Italian campaign with an anti-tank unit of the Fifth Army and was discharged through the Indiantown Gap center February 9.

Pfc. George Brown, wearer of the Purple Heart, served with the Rainbow Division of the Third Army in Europe and was separated from the armed forces December 30.

Pfc. Donald Brown was the only son who did not serve overseas, and was attached to a hospital unit in Tacoma, Wash. He received his final papers January 8 on the west coast.

Pfc. Harold Brown, who received a bullet wound in his leg, is resting in the Newton Bak. General hospital in Martinsburg, W. Va. He was an infantryman and was wounded in Germany April 12, 1945. He was a member of the First Army.

Bowles Announces Meat Prices Will Be Increased Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(INS)—Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles announced an increase in the retail price of meat Tuesday to cover general wage boosts for the packinghouse workers.

Under the government's plan the retail price of meat will go up about one and one-half percent over current prices.

Bowles' action was taken as the National Wage Stabilization board approved a 16 cent hourly pay boost for 85,000 production workers in the sealed plants of the "big five" meat packers.

Bowles said an increase of 45 cents per 100 pounds will be allowed, effective March 11, to the packers of beef, veal and lamb, and 55 cents per hundred pounds on pork.

The NWSB directed Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, the government's operator of the sealed meat packing plants, to place the 16 cent hourly wage increase in effect immediately.

At the same time, the wage board ordered increases of 16 cents an hour for all "white collar" workers whose salaries do not exceed $120 a week.

The NWSB ordered the wage increase for production employees effective as of last January 26 and for salary workers as of January 28.

PULASKI

A birthday party was held in honor of troop 28 of the Pulaski Girl Scouts on Friday evening. Around a table decorated in the traditional Girl Scout colors, green and yellow, sat 37 ladies: Girl Scouts, their mothers and committee members.
